Welcome,

Thank you for your interest in the Joint Interoperability Test Command (JITC). We welcome the opportunity to serve you!

The JITC is located at Fort Huachuca, Arizona and Indian Head, Maryland. We are the Department of Defense (DOD) certification authority for joint and combined interoperability of Command, Control, Communications, Computer, and Intelligence (C<sup>4</sup>I) systems. All DOD C<sup>4</sup>I systems must be certified by JITC prior to fielding. We are also the testing arm of the Defense Information Systems Agency (DISA) and function as the Operational Test Agency (OTA) for DISA programs, as well as being the OTA or Executive Test Agency for several other organizations. We conduct developmental and operational testing, operational assessments, standards conformance testing, and provide technical support to the Joint Staff, the military Services, Combatant Commands (COCOMS), federal Agencies, Coalition Partners /Allies, and private industry.

The JITC is a “one-stop systems testing” facility with a one-of-a-kind array of hardware and software in over 22 testbeds and laboratories, providing state-of-the-art technological flexibility. Testing can be done at Fort Huachuca by interfacing the JITC’s on-site capabilities and networking with any other testing or operational facilities worldwide. The JITC deploys to major exercises and real-world contingencies, to provide technical support and operational assessments directly to the warfighter.

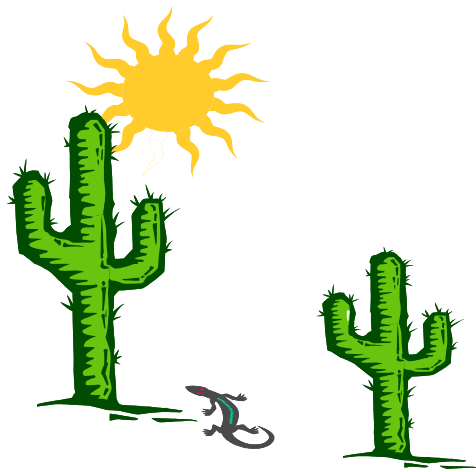

For more information on how the JITC can benefit your organization or to schedule a tour of our facility, please contact the JITC Visitor Support Center at 520-538-5429 or 520-538-5508, or visit our web-site at: <http://jitic.fhu.disa.mil>
